

Seasonal Greetings to all our Members

It is almost 12 months since our SIG was founded and we are still hoping to announce a further meeting early in 2007. In the meantime we wish you a very happy Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

It is appreciated that a number of our members do not celebrate at this time – to you we offer our hand in sincere friendship in an uncertain world.

Erratum

In the last NEWSLETTER, I referred to “the limbic system”, whereas I should have said limbic. I am grateful to Ruth Murray-Webster for pointing this out.

More than one of you said that you will be considering this longer than normal NEWSLETTER over the end of year period, so I look forward to more comments in the New Year.

Thought of the Month

Your editor, wearing his RMOE Assistant Examiner’s hat, recently attended the meeting held in Nottingham for student workshops. In spite of the “centre of the Country” nature of the venue, a number of delegates had to stay overnight and there were complaints about problems with train changing or traffic congestion. In fact one lady, who came from Holland, said triumphantly, that it had only taken her 3 hours from Amsterdam including one air journey. Another lady, from Inverness (for the benefit of our overseas members, this is in Scotland) said it had taken her 10 hours including two flights – with the journey the day before and the journey back the day after, this made it a three day event!

We do have a few members in Scotland, so you can see the problems we are faced with when trying to arrange a suitable venue for our next meeting.

Newsletter – No. 13 – the Training Special

Should be out at the end of January/February 2007
